Attorney Whitman and representatives did the deputy commissioner answer a did the deputy commissioner answer a did the deputy commissioner answer a did the deputy commissioner answer as during his trip here from Hot Springs, during his trip here from hot Springs, Ark., have come to naught. Tonight, Schepps, one of the state's most important witnesses in the Rosenthal mender case, is a prisoner on a technical charge in the West Side jall, and under the surveillance of men from the district attorney's office, who have orders to allow no one to communicate with him without credentials from Mr. Whitman bimself.

Will Corroborate Rose's Story. Tomorrow Schepps will go before the grand jury and is expected to corthe grand jury and is expected to corroborate in every essential detail the story told by his friend, Jack Rose, upon which Police Lieut Charles Becker was indicted for Rosenthal's assassination. Schepps reached here today accompanied by District Attorney Whitman himself, who joined the Schepps party at Albany.

Dougherty Wants Custody of Prisoner How essential it seemed to Mr. Whitman that he should personally protest Schepps from New York police interference, appeared tonight when it was learned that Detective Al Thomas, the police officer who with Assistant District Attorney Rubin brought Schapps from Hot Springs, had re-ceived during the journey east several telegrams from Deputy Police Commissioner Dougherty, ordering him to bring the prisoner to police headquar-ters directly upon his arrival. The first telegram from Dougherty was re-ceived by Thomas August 15, en route from St. Louis and read:

"Advise when and what route you take with Schepps and when due here." More Messages from Dougherty. The next day a second message from

A BOASTING MOOD ON PANAMA CANAL BILL

Recommends Legislation to Allow For eign Nations to Test Legality of "Free Tolls" Provision in Our Courts

Washington, Aug. 12.—President Taft closed a day of conferences on the Panama canal bill with a special message to congress suggesting the passage of legislation which would permit American ships to travel the canal tell free and which would also enable foreign nations to test the le-gality of this provision by suits in United States courts.

Message Read in Congress.

The president discussed the mes he house, and its wording was finally ecided upon at a meeting of the cabnet which began at luncheon time and asted until late in the afternoon. The nessage was read in congress soon afterward and will be taken up tomorrow by committees of both houses.

It was the belief here tonight that a determined effort will be made to meet the president's wishes, although some leaders, particularly in the house were inclined to believe that the mes-sage meant no furthr action in regard o the canal at the present session. To Show Our Spirit of Fairness.

Mr. Taft explained that he was anx-Mr. Taft explained that he was anxlous to sign the present bill, but wished to assure other governments of the spirit of fairness on the part of the United States. The president was told that an act of congress would have the effect of abrogating any treaty previously agreed to, and the decision of the supreme court over the Chinese exclusion act was given as the authority for the statement. His suggestion to congress for additional legislation designed to prevent any such Despite Rev islation designed to prevent any such issition designed to prevent any such construction as that of the supreme court in the Chinese case would allow foreigners to try their cause in the United States courts. It reads as fol-

The President's Suggestion. "That nothing contained in the act titlled 'An act to provide for the opening, maintenance, protection and operation of the Panama canal and the sanitation and government of the canal zone shall be remedled to repeal any provision of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty, or to affect the judicial construction thereof, or in any wise to impair any rights or privileges which have been or may be acquired by any foreign nation under the treaties of the United States relative to tolks or other charges for the passage of vessels through the Panama canal, and that when any silen, whether natural person partnership. person, partnership, company, or corporation, considers that the charging tolls or the enforcement of any other regulation under and pursuant to the provisions of this act violates in any way such treaty rights or privi-leges, such alien shall have the right to bring an action against the United cases and to decree the appropriate relief, and from the decision of such district courts there shall be an appeal by either party to the action to the supreme court of the United States."

An Earnest of Our Good Faith, "This language," continued the mesan sage, negatives absolutely any desire on the part of congress to repeal the Hay-Pauncefore treaty, or to violate its provisions by this legislation, and leaves open to any person who deems himself aggrieved by the provisions of the act an opportunity to appeal to think the importance of our standing before the world as anxious to give to the world an opportunity to test this question in the couris, is an earnest of our good faith in attempting to keep within our treaty

No Intention to Violate Treaty. After full examination of the treaty and of the treaty which preceded it, I feel confident that the exemption of the constwise vessels of the United States from tolls and the imposition an interview tonight said:

States from tolls and the imposition of tolls on vessels of all nations envirolation of the assemblage adjourned to a local sudiction of the foreign trade in the foreign tion, and the secretary of state has received an informal protest from the British government that the plated legislation is a violation of her reaty rights.

"I am sure that it is not the in-tention of congress to violate the Hay-Pauncefole treaty or to enact any-thing inconsistent with its provisions, and it certainly is not its purpose to reneal, by subsequent enactment, the treaty, in so far as it represents the law of the land. It is of the highest importance, therefore, that this atti-inde should be made clearly known to the nations of the world and that we should avoid any apparent justification Suggestion Not Likely to Be Adopted.

The message, after being read in the house, was referred to the interstate commerce committee on motion of Democratic Leader Underwood. The committee has adjourned for the sea-sion and Chairman Underwood moved to have the bill left on the speaker's table, but the house immediately voted otherwise. "It's gone to bed so far as the house is concerned," was Mr. Adamson's remark. He added that he had not been able to command a quorum of his committee for the last three

There is no disposition on the part of the house leaders so far as they would indicate tonight to attempt to press a resolution of the character of that recommended by the president. There was an informal conference between Representative Sherley of Ker tucke, who talkd with the president on the subject, and others who have taken a prominent part in Panama legislation in the house, and the sen-timent expressed was that there would be no further legislation and that if the president velocd the bill the whole matter would go over to the December

AMERICAN POACHER MEETI

Was an Uncrowned King Among the Natives-Was Once a Gold Hunter in the Klendike-His Wife Remarried

London, Aug. 19.—Hunted down by British soldiers in the depths of the jungles of Central Africa, where for years in defiance of all authority, he had pursued the career of an elephant poacher, and illicit ivory trader, James ward Rogers, and flucit lyory trader, James Ward Rogers, an American, is dead. He was shot down by a little force of troops which had been sent out into the wilderness in pursuit, with orders not to return without the outlaw, dead or allege.

Case Reported Yesterday. News of Rogers' death came formally today to the British colonial effice from Capt. C. V. Fox, inspector of Mongalia province, who commanded the expedition. Although told in an official report, the story revealed is one of the most dramatic in colonial story. annals.

Netted a Fortune.

For years Rogers had carried on his For years Rogers had carried on his lawless trade, which popular opinion credited with netting him a fortune. The remote regions along the Lado Enclave and Congo boundaries were the scenes of his operations. Time after time British officials of the Soudan have tried in vain to trap him. It was this preionged defiance which determined the government to crush the old man.

Was an Uncrowned King. Captain Fox's report shows that in his long operations Rogers had done more than had been dreamed of by the colonial office. He had established an organized administration over the wild, trackless country, and among the na-fives was a virtual if uncrowned king.
